

2:15 to 3:15 p.m. — Thursday, April 1, 2010

What can a coroner teach us about accident prevention?

Accident prevention is more than following safety rules. It is critical to saving lives. Too often, the coroner's office deals with victims of workplace accidents that could have easily been prevented. The Lucas County Coroner will provide a descriptive, eye-opening account of investigating workplace fatalities. The coroner's unique perspective will educate the novice worker and energize the seasoned safety professional with the importance of implementing and enforcing effective accident prevention programs. Attendees will be able to describe the importance of accident prevention programs in the workplace; list the consequences of workplace accidents; and explain the coroner's role during accident investigations.

Notes:

Action items: